John Brinsmead-Stockham KC

John undertakes a wide variety of advisory and litigation work in all areas of tax law. He has advised on and litigated matters ranging from inheritance tax and SDLT planning to major corporation tax and VAT disputes between multi-national companies and HMRC. In addition to his work in UK tax law, he has also advised as to the law of British Overseas Territories.

John's "Notable Cases" section (see tab below) provides a good cross-section of his areas of practice. However, he has also advised in respect of a much wider range of matters that have not led to litigation, an overview of which is set out in the "Practice Areas" section (see tab below).

Appointed King's Counsel - 2023

Tax Junior of the Year (2020) - Legal 500.

Tax Junior of the Year (2020) - Chambers and Partners.

Attorney General's Panel of Counsel - C Panel (2014), B Panel, (2019), A Panel (2021).

John is a CEDR qualified mediator and also has experience of being instructed to act as an expert witness as to the content of UK tax law in proceedings in the US.

Background

Corporate taxation - John has significant experience in advising on a wide range of areas including: all aspects of group relief; the substantial shareholding exemption; R&D allowances; taxation of dividends; capital allowances; the loan relationships codes and the taxation of derivatives.

International taxation - John has an extensive practise in matters concerning international taxation and has advised and/or litigated questions concerning: residence (both individual and corporate); the classification of foreign entities; anti-arbitrage provisions; transfer pricing; diverted profit tax; pensions taxation; and non-discrimination articles and anti-abuse provisions in UK treaties. In addition, John has advised on a number of occasions concerning the law of British Overseas Territories.

Personal taxation - John's practice has included most contentious aspects of individual taxation - from the taxation of trades and professions to capital gains tax, inheritance tax and SDLT disputes. John has broad experience in advising and litigating questions concerning the mechanics/procedure for assessment as well as advance payment notices (APNs) and follower notices. He has also advised on more specialist areas including disguised investment management fees (DIMF), carried interest and the taxation of fees paid to whistle-blowers in the US.

Oil taxation - John has advised and litigated in relation to petroleum revenue tax and the corporation tax ring fence, as well as in relation to capital allowances in the oil sector. His first significant piece of litigation involved securing the seafarers' earnings deduction for the crews of a number of semi-submersible vessels.

VAT and indirect taxation - John has advised extensively on VAT with recent work focusing on questions of: single/multiple supply; the medical and financial services exemptions; zero-rating; VAT on property; claims to deduct input tax; the UK vouchers regime; TOMS; and the VAT treatment of situations involving multiple parties. John also has significant experience of advising on and litigating in customs disputes, including questions of classification and valuation.
